The eppearance on the stand of Nathan Pumerants, the accused, and the rebuttal testimony offered by the State's attorney were the features. Thursday in the superior court here in the trial of Mr. Pumerants on the charge of arson and fraud in connection with the fire that occurred at his store in the Shea building in New London on Dec. 13, 1912.

The Accused Testifies, In beginning his testimony Mr. Pum-rantz said he was 32 years of age and hat he was been in Austria. He said e had been in the tailoring business a New London 14 years, part of the ins as a workman and the remainder f the period as a keeper of a store and hop. He declared that some of the ime he had as many as seven men in its employ. He had been in the Bank street store four years when the fire occurred, and there he carried the largest stock in his line of business that was carried in New London.

In May, 1913, a Boston house to which he owed money attempted to force the payment of its bill, but Pum-erantz sought an extension of time in that direction, and then he had two experts from New Jersey examine the stock and estimate its value. He had $12,200 worth of goods and when the fire occurred he had more than ever before. He then had $14,000 or $15,000 worth at wholesale. He offered to pay the Boston parties to whom he was in debt $50 a mouth on their bill. He said the fatures in the store then were worth $2,000 and he had a cash regiser that was worth $595.

Mr. Pumerantz then told the story that other witnesses for the defense had told and said that he went home on a trolley car after he closed his store the night of the fire. He didn't remember the conductor with whom h rode home. He denied that he treated McCarthy, the watchman, to any beer that night in Elland's saloon, and was positive about the matter.

Denied He Said He Went to Bath, Mr. Pumerantz said he talked with pembers of the state police about the Last Thursday I was under fire from 8 n. m. to about 4 p. m. and I had two of the narrowest escapes I ever had in my life. We had slept in a barn overnight and on the morning following we had to get a quick move on. The officers took us to a large wood close by and the Germans shelled us out. I had about 50 men with me. All of a sudden I heard a shell coming and I told the men to lie flat. I myself lay behind a large tree. The shell bust right over our heads and one of the bullets hope to be about again very soon
